HPL Colour

Beech | Jasmine | Milky oak | Light blue

HPL Laminate advantages:

- high strength to: bending, tearing, impact;
- resistance to mechanical damage;
- wear resistance - the material is practically not subject to abrasion and can serve many
- times longer than conventional varnished plywood;
- high resistance to chemically aggressive media and organic solvents;
- fire resistance - flammability group G1;
- environmental safety - the material is easy to clean from dust, dirt, etc., makes it impossible for them to penetrate the plywood structure and protects against the development of harmful microorganisms;
- smooth surface and aesthetic appearance - HPL plastic has the structure (pattern) and color of natural wood;
- eliminates the possibility of delamination.

Advantages:

- Transitional polyurethane bushings provide smooth adjustment, eliminate squeaking and play during operation, prevent scratches when adjusting the height and give an ergonomic modern look;
- the presence of tips on the chair does not damage the floor surface;
- metal frame coated with powdered polymeric materials prevents damage to the chair;;
- a hole on the bottom of the frame, through which you can see the markings of height groups when adjusting the height of the table. The color marking is applied in the form of a circle of about 10 mm;
- the marking scale, which is placed on the metal frame, displays all the information about the fixed position of the height group. This scale is engraved using a high-quality modern laser.

Plywood chairs advantages:

- plywood chairs are characterized by high strength, reliability and stability, despite despite their low weight;
- chairs made of plywood are easy to use and maintain;
- the material covered with a protective varnish serves for a long time and retains its excellent appearance throughout the entire period of operation;
- the plywood used to make the chairs does not change its properties when exposed to moisture, so it has excellent strength characteristics;
